

SEEK NEW SUBWAY INTO GREENPOINT FACTORY SECTION

Citizens of Brooklyn and Queens Lead for Better Transit Facilities.

Chairman McCall and Commissioners William Eustis and Malville of the Public Service Commission heard dozens of taxpayers, men and women, of Brooklyn and Queens counties, in the American Chamber of the City Hall to-day, urging the immediate construction of a cross-town subway between the Brighton Beach elevated and the Queensborough Bridge.

universal demand for this connecting link Chairman McCall said.

"Let me say here that I confess frankly that when I went over the proposed route of this subway into the Greenpoint section I found it was an education to me. I venture to say residents here in Manhattan, though close to your doors, do not begin to have a conception of this mine hive of industry there.

"They do not know that, to the shame of the city, whether the fault be local indifference or not, that a great manufacturing centre exists there in a sort of cul de sac.

"No public official," continued Chairman McCall, "who is charged with responsibility and authority such as we are, can tolerate a continuance of these conditions if it is possible to relieve them. Let me be plain, so that you will not go from here with a false impression. The financial condition of the city of New York is the one barrier to our immediate action on this cross town route. If the city is financially capable we are ready.

"Can we find an honorable way to immediately put this project in the course of construction? That is the only question that confronts us."

The various speakers were introduced to the Commission by Frank W. Conn, President of the Manufacturers' Association of New York. Mr. Conn told the Commission that the fight for a connecting link has been in progress three years, and that to-day the cross-town subway is an imperative need.

Monsignor O'Hara, pastor of the Church of St. Anthony, declared that the greatest industrial section of Brooklyn is isolated because of lack of transit. He said that Greenpoint is second only to Pittsburgh in manufacturing importance in the United States.

"From Brighton Beach to Astoria the population demands this salvation," said Father O'Hara. "There is not a voice in all Brooklyn and all Queens against it.

"In a very few years Brooklyn will surpass Manhattan in population, and we should prepare for that condition now. We have faith in and trust you gentlemen of the commission. Get this subway started."

Other speakers were Col. Andrew D. David, President of the Tenth Ward Improvement Association; Thomas V. Patrickson, President of the Scranton and Lehigh Coal Company and president of various local organizations.

At the conclusion of the address Chairman McCall asked if there was any voice present in opposition to the proposed subway. No one replied, and the Chairman concluded the meeting with the remarks above.

BRIDE OF WEEK KILLED ON HONEYMOON IN WEST

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Oct. 8.—The death of a bride by drowning just a week after her marriage in this city was told to-day in dispatches sent here from Henry, Idaho, to the family of J. N. Appar. Mrs. Hazel Reed Appar was drowned in the Blackfoot River, in Idaho, when she tried to urge her horse into the water in her desire to recover a duck she had shot.

The pony Mrs. Appar was riding, a wedding gift from her husband, who is superintendent of the Union Stock Yards at Pocatello, Idaho, stumbled in mid-stream and, falling, pinned Mrs. Appar beneath him. She was dead when her husband managed to drag her body out from under the horse.

The Appars had planned to spend their honeymoon in a fishing trip on a ranch near Pocatello.

A Long-Cherished Ambition Comes True!

Imported Afternoon and Evening Dresses at $35!

Afternoon Gowns of rich charmeuse from one of the most skilled dressmakers of Europe seem quite incredible, do they not? But they have been accomplished by Gimbels!

If you were to buy imported silk of the fine quality that is used in these Gowns, the cost of the silk alone would be quite a sum. Then, too, these Dresses have that indescribable tone that one only finds in imported modes—and the possession of which is usually very costly.

The Dresses are simply fashioned, as you will see in the illustration, but the richness of the silk and the way it drapes the figure makes them very charming. In Seal Brown that was the dominating color at the Grand Prix Races last Sunday in Paris.

Dark Blue and Old Gold.

The Evening Gowns are of fine silk broche crepe, with draped bodices of chiffon. The draperies of chiffon below the waist are edged with pretty gold lace. In the pastel colors.

The Showing of New LAMPS

Simplifies the Problem of the Artistic And Practical Lighting of Your Home

You must know, first of all, that the Gimbel Lamp Store contains one of the very few really complete collections in New York. Also, that the word "Lamps" is most elastic, and includes everything from a superb electric dome or shower to a simple little candleshade.

Then when we tell you that this new season's display is the best we have ever made, you can realize that a very unusual assemblage awaits you.

Of course, the beautiful Lamps from abroad—our direct importations—provide the greater part of the interest, especially from the artistic point of view. But the American makers have produced some very fine Lamps especially among the more practical kinds. It seems as though the appropriate lighting arrangement in your house can be chosen, without hesitation from the wonderful display.

You Will Like to See Especially

The Electric Lamps of the Louis XV. and XVI. periods in real bronze, at $125 to $250. And the Floor Lamps of the same type at $450 to $600.
